Celebrating the Swahili New Testament

The Swahili New Testament first edition is complete. It has been named the Neema Ya Mungu Version (Grace of God Version). In Augst 2026, a team from Global Bible Translators traveled to Kenya to celebrate the Swahili New Testament. The team consists of Dr. Steve Zeinner, Dr. Jim Taylor, Missionary Dave Mowery, Pastor Terrence McGovern, and Pastor Chad Springer. The celebration was hosted by Missionary Robert Mickey of Grace to the Regions Beyond and Pastor Justice Oloo of Grace Bible Baptist Church of Nakuru, Kenya, where the conference was held. The team is pictured above with Edgah Achoka, the leader of the Swahili Translation Team. The team will be taught classes in the Rift Valley Bible College from August 17-21, and the celebration was held on August 23. Peter Folger, Pastor of Cleveland Baptist Church, was the Keynote speaker on Sunday morning, Aug. 23. Steve Zeinner said:

> So far, this trip has been nothing short of spectacular! We have had the privilege of meeting with the Swahili, Bukusu, Kisii, and Luo translation teams. We are deeply encouraged by their progress, success, and commitment to the work of translating God's Word. What a joy it is to see God's Word being placed into the hands of people who have never before had it in their own language. To witness these translators faithfully laboring so that others can read, understand, and respond to the Word of God is truly a blessing. We are so thankful for what God is doing!
